Welcome to Mallory for what I'm sure will turn out to be a most exiting penultimate round of the VMCC championships.

More years ago than he is willing to admit, Ian, my brother, decided he would like to go Vintage racing. Some weeks later his pride and joy – a Bantam was wheeled on the trailer and headed for its first meeting. Unfortunately this proved to be a less than resounding success as far as the bike went, but was never the less great fun. Eventually, with a good deal of help from Dad, Ian prepared his first Vincent which he found a little more competitive. After hearing my families accounts of hectic but fun days, I decided to join them, reasoning that even if you return home with 2 very sick bikes having struggled to complete even 1 race and are still able to say you enjoyed yourself, Vintage racing must be something special. So at 5 a.m. one Sunday morning (a time I didn't know existed), I prised myself out of bed and, once awake, did have a thoroughly enjoyable day.

Since then I have tried to become more involved. As my mechanical expertise extends little further than where the petrol goes, I thought I might be able to help in other ways. (The photo below is me with a plastic toolkit that Ian bought at the Manx in case I offered any 'assistance' As marshalling is a most vital part of racing, Dad, Mum and myself offered our services at 3 Sisters although only if we were allocated a quiet spot with no corners, mainly due to the fact that had anyone fallen off, not one of us could have moved the bike! We should all be grateful to marshals – I know it's not a job I could do.

My paddock activities did stretch to pushing the bike, but after getting the bike started at Donington, Ian pulled off on the first lap. After the problem was diagnosed as 'failure to turn on the petrol tap' I lost the enthusiasm to push.

So I now try to support the Section by selling our Regalia. Don't forget that now's a good time to review your autumn wardrobe. Treat yourself to that sweatshirt you've needed all year and help Vintage Racing at the same time. I look forward to seeing you and hope you all have a most enjoyable day.
