WELCOME FROM BRITCAR

Welcome to Brands Hatch, for the opening rounds of our Championships, and the new Britsports series. Once again, I am delighted to announce that the Britcar GT Championship will be sponsored by Mackinnon Construction.

It seems not long ago that we were finishing our 2009 season, here at this very circuit last November, and now we return for a season of revised championship structures, welcoming back old friends, and looking forward to hosting new teams, cars, and drivers. Our reigning champions are back, too; Witt Gamski and Keith Robinson share a new Ferrari 430 GT2, and Kevin Clarke and Wayne Gibson have a beautiful E92-bodied BMW GT4.

Spring creeps up on us quickly after the dark days of winter, and the teams will have been working tirelessly, both mechanically and financially, to get their machines onto the grid in these tough economic times – my thanks go out to all those that give us a fantastic spectacle to enjoy.

New for the teams and sponsors this season is our hospitality suite, which will be available every race weekend, and I am sure will prove a popular venue for relaxation and discussion.

I am particularly pleased to see an encouraging grid for Britsports, our revived series, now exclusively for Caterhams – last year's end-of-season trial races proved that there is considerable interest in a well-run endurance format for these cars, and we look forward to an exciting season of close racing.

Looking further ahead, the return of our flagship event, the Britcar 24 hours, at Silverstone in early October, has been welcomed by competitors, the media, and enthusiasts alike, and there are attractive ticket offers to be obtained. See the Britcar website for full details – www.britcar24hr.co.uk.

This race meeting would not be possible without the enthusiastic and hard-working marshals and officials that give their precious spare time to the sport – my thanks, as always, go to them. I wish you all – competitors, officials, spectators – a successful, enjoyable, and safe meeting.

Sportingly

James Tucker
Director, Britcar Ltd

Britsports is back, this time with a definite Caterham bias.

Race series for Caterhams are many and varied, and Britsports sees the machines compete in an endurance format, with an eclectic mix of car variants and drivers.

Last season's try-out race, here at Brands Hatch in November, proved popular with Caterham regulars and experienced racers trying their hand at something different, and they return here today for the first of a season-long series of double-headers. Caterham racing is always fast and close, and the trial race proved that none of that ethic was lost in the endurance format.

Reigning R300 Champion Jon Walker, in the DPR Motorsport R300, will be a significant runner and is in just one of five cars entered by Derrick Rowe's enthusiastic team this weekend. Old hands like Nick Starkey and Doug Newman have raced Caterhams for years, as well as being endurance racing experts, and they will be drawing on their experience to beat regular Britcar pilots such as Dominic Evans and Zubin Randeria, who have recently discovered the fun and fulfilment of racing these Spartan machines. Look out, too, for marque specialist Carl Woodwiss, in his self-run CSR260, and Chris Milner in a Cosworth Masters.
