RAFMSA RACE CHALLENGE

The Royal Air Force Motor Sports Association (RAFMSA) has been active since 1961, with members in every form of motor-sport from regional to International level. Their most famous member is Squadron Leader Andy Green, driver of Richard Noble's Thrust-SSC, which broke through the sound barrier to make him the fastest man on earth!

The RAFMSA operates a sprint track at RAF Barkston Heath, where newcomers are introduced into motor-sport at a budget level in the RAFMSA Speed Challenge. From these grass-roots beginnings many members have progressed up the motor sports ladder with financial support from the RAF Sports Lottery. Our more experienced members (some of whom are ARDS instructors) are on hand to assist the newcomers. We also have a Junior Academy at Barkston where we accept youngsters from 14 years of age.

The aim of the RAFMSA Race Challenge is to bring together the great diversity of cars used by its circuit racing members into a single race format. Consequently, the awards do not relate to track position, but to each individual's pace, which is based on a comparison of their race average lap time against their fastest lap time. This is a measure of their ability to make a good start, how soon they can "get on the pace" (whilst tyres and brakes are cold) and to maintain that pace whilst jostling for race position.

Each season's races are used to select RAFMSA team members for the annual "Birkett 6 Hour Team Handicap Relay" race at Silverstone every October. The RAFMSA have successfully fielded teams for this epic event for the past six years achieving two outright wins and three class wins.
