Classic Entertainment at Lydden

Welcome to today's meeting on behalf of everyone at the British Automobile Racing Club (London & Home Counties Centre). This is our second circuit event of the season at Lydden and it is the popular annual fixture which includes several races for Members of the Classic Saloon Car Club.

In fact the life-blood which, pulses through the heart of the programme today is a strong classic entry which accounts for five of the nine races. Jaguars, Ford Mustangs, Lotus-Cortinas, Triumph Dolomite Sprints and of course the ubiquitous Ford Escorts are among a fine collection of classic, historic and post-historic touring cars taking part in this feast of tin-top entertainment. And models such as the Morris Minor, Austin A35 and A40 performed some magnificent giant-killing feats which made touring car racing so popular in the late 'Fifties' and early 'Sixties'.

The classic theme continues with another healthy entry for the Universal Racing Services Classic Formula Ford 2000 Championship race which features several former winners, including the Formula One racing car designer, Steve Nichols from the USA. And Tony Hancock used to be a regular contender here in the popular Flint FF2000 series when he raced against Nick Owen, the owner of the Van Diemen RF82 which Ian Osbourne will be racing twice today.

But there are plenty of modern racers as well. Robin Woodger (4.5 Rover) and Phil Sutcliffe (BMW 323i) will have their hands full, literally, when they tackle nimble and nippy Fords from the smaller classes, not to mention the ever-spectacular John Hammersley and his Mardi Gras Honda Civic, in the BARC/RSCC championship event. This is combined with the F1 Racewear Saloon championship round, when we should see another grudge match between local racers Rod Birley (Escort-Cosworth), Alex Sidwell (Sapphire-Cosworth) and Craig Dawson (Peugeot 205GTI).

There is another interesting combination in Race 6, when prototype racer John Oxborrow and the former hot-rod hot-shoes from the DJ Invicta Silhouette series take on the regular competitors in the Lydden Sports Car championship as well as a new name, Andrew Delahunty, 16, who last month became the youngest winner of a circuit race in Britain.

Local racers and former winners Ian Osbourne (Maidstone), Matt Hayes (Dover)
