The final round of the 125cc IMBA European Championship was held in Eriswil, Switzerland at the weekend. After torrential thunderstorms on Friday and Saturday night the circuit was left in appalling condition, as Sunday dawned, or didn't as the case was the circuit was covered in fog, riding was postponed until the presentation at 12:30 where a decision would be made as to whether the riders would race. A majority decision was taken that the riders would race, just before the opening race the heavens opened, the track turned into a quagmire, Lee Dunham rode superbly, in only his fourth IMBA event he won the race, staying out of trouble he took the win from Rick Du'Feu who also showed his experience having a solid race to finish second. The last two races were abandoned leaving Dunham as the winner.
